

2013 American Indian Research Center for Health Conference “Addressing Tribal Health Priorities through a Community-Based Translational Research Framework”

Conference Registration Packet

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The Inter Tribal Council of Arizona, Inc. (ITCA) American Indian Research Center for Health (AIRCH) in collaboration with the Dental Prevention Clinical Support Center (DPCSC) will be hosting the 2013 AIRCH Health Research Conference on August 15-16, 2013 at the Wild Horse Pass Hotel & Casino. This year’s theme is “Addressing Tribal Health Priorities through a Community-Based Translational Research Framework.” This conference will examine tribal health priorities and translational research to help build tribal health and oral health research capacity for the present and into the future. Community-based translational research with a focus on American Indians can only be effective if performed within a research framework that considers the real world differences in culture, broader community needs, socioeconomic status, and structure of health care delivery within tribal communities. This conference will provide ongoing dialogue among tribal leaders, health officials, researchers, students and other key stakeholders regarding current and future translational research in American Indian communities.
